Three-year-old Sheri Shaver kept herself occupied with a lollypop Tuesday morning while waiting for her mother, Joyce Shaver, 1604 East Ninth, to vote in the city election. A check of the four wards at noon indicated an average to slightly higher voter turnout. Those precincts checked were First Ward, third precinct, with "over 200" voters, considered a heavy turnout; Second Ward, fourth precinct, 122 voters; Third Ward, first precinct, 121 voters; and Fourth Ward, fourth precinct, 166 voters.

First-round approval for measure on credit denial

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri House gave first-round approval today to a measure which would prohibit denial of credit on the basis of sex or martial status.

The bill is one of a package offered by Rep. Sue Shear, D-Brentwood, to eliminate sex and marital status distinctions in the law.

Other measures given first-round approval by the House Tuesday would eliminate a prohibitation for women to work in mines and allow girls under 18

In the Senate Monday a proposed Missouri Bureau of Investigation in the Missouri Highway Patrol received first-round approval.

The House, returning Monday to begin the last month of the 1974 legislative session, gave first-round approval to a "zero-base" budgeting bill to require itemized appropriations requests from state agencies.

The Missouri Bureau of Investigation bill, a substitute offered by Sen. Robert Young, D-St. Ann, would allow the highway patrol superintendent to designate up to 40 persons for a special criminal investigation unit.

The director of the unit would be a highway patrolman appointed by the governor with Senate consent.

He could order his unit into any area of the state to investigate criminal cases. He could be requested by local law enforcement authorities to aid in an investigation, but could go into any area without getting a request.

Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, sponsored a bill to set up a bipartisan commission to run the agency, and his bill provided that requests in writing must be submitted before the special unit could move into an area. The governor and attorney general also could make the requests. Under Young's bill, the governor could ask the unit director to make an investigation. The highway patrol already has an investigative force and several senators charged the bill is not needed.

Sen. Earl Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, opposed the bill, saying it would probably cost about $1.5 million and said, "We don't need this. I've heard no criticism of our law enforcement agencies, at least no more than in any other state. We've got to stop somewhere. This thing will grow and someone will come back and ask for a tax increase."

Cason's bill had an estimated cost of $400,000 a year. However, Cason voted for Young's substitute.

The Senate Appropriations Committee approved and sent to the floor eight appropriations bills for the 1974-75 fiscal year. The bills represent 90 per cent of the state's expected $2 billion budget for the next year.

The House Appropriations Committee approved a $48.9 million bill for building projects in the next fiscal year.

The zero-base budgeting proposal would require state agencies to prepare budgets with detailed proposed expenditures rather than ask for a percentage increase in appropriations, said Rep. Harry Gallagher, D-Kansas City.

The bill also would require agencies to submit quarterly reports not only to the commissioner of administration but to House aand Senate appropriations committees as well.

Water main resolution passed

The dispute between property owners on South Highway 65 and the city over building a water main south on Highway 65 to the city limits moved closer to settlement Monday night.

The City Council passed a resolution to begin signing up property owners who are willing to place $375 in escrow to help pay for one-half of the cost of constructing the water main.

The city engineer has estimated construction costs will be close to $20,000, and First Ward Republican Councilman Don Broaddus told the council that 20 property owners have told him they are willing to post the money.

The money is to be used to construct water mains and install fire hydrants beyond the present water-service boundary of 32nd Street.

The city will pay for the other half of the construction costs.

In other action, the council passed ordinances making streets around the Post Office, Fifth and Washington, one-way; authorizing a contract with Missouri Public Service Co. to supply electricity to the airport; and allowing trees and shrubs to be planted on public grounds.

For a 90-day trial period, Washington, between Fifth and Third, will be one-way northbound; Lafayette, between Third and Fifth, one way southbound; and Fourth, between Washington and Lafayette, one-way eastbound.

City counselor Bob Fritz said Sedalia police will start enforcing the one-way streets ordinance as soon as signs are posted.

If the trial period proves successful in relieving the traffic congestion at the Post Office, the change will be made permanent.

The contract with MPSC guarantees that the city will pay a minimum amount each month for electricity for the airport. Fritz said this is a normal requirement utility companies request when asked to extend service lines past present boundaries.

The ordinance allowing the planting of trees and shrubs on public grounds was requested by downtown merchants who desire to build planters on the sidewalks in front of their stores. The ordinance requires that the city engineer give prior approval to any plantings or construction.

Police Chief William Miller appeared before the council to request that an ordinance be passed authorizing the police department to enforce the no-right turn on red lights signs posted by the State Highway Department at Broadway and Grand; Broadway and Engineer; and Limit and Fifth.

Miller told the council that since there is no city ordinance restricting right turns at these intersections, city police must summon a state Highway Patrolman when offenders are stopped, rather than issuing a city ticket.

The council authorized Fritz to draw up such an ordinance. The State Highway Department placed the no-right turn on red lights at those intersections because these are school crossings, Jones said.

On the recommendation of finance committee chairman George Dugan Jr., the council voted to purchase the IBM computer in the police department. The city had the option of renting the computer for $8,133 for the next three years, or purchasing the machine outright for $7,409.

Both amounts included a service agreement. Dugan said he was assured by a representative of IBM Corp. that the computer would not be obsolete in the three years, barring expansion of the Sedalia police department. The computer is used

Chance to repair house granted

By JOE KELL
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

A citizen fought city hall Monday night — and won. Richard Poole, 209 East Johnson, appealed a decision by the council to condemn his house, and the council voted unanimously to allow him the chance to repair the building.

The condemnation hearing on the house was first held March 5, when Poole appeared and told the council he bought the house without knowing it had been condemned.

He pleaded with the council at that time to allow him to improve the house rather than demolish it.

The council delayed the condemnation vote for two weeks to give council members a chance to view the structure. After making individual visits to the house, all council members agreed March 18 that the house would cost more to repair than to tear down and rebuild.

But Poole refused to give up, and appeared at the pre-council meeting Monday night with bids from electrical and foundation contractors for repair of the house.

"It took me 50 years to get this far," Poole said. "I don't know what I'm going to do if I have to tear it down."

He told the council that he has relatives who will help him with the electrical and plumbing work, to hold down the cost of repairs.

"It may take a year, but I want to fix the house up nice," Poole said.

Fourth Ward Republican George Dugan Jr. said, "If he is willing to try, I can't see stopping him. I think he's got enough ambition."

Mayor Jerry Jones said, "I personally think he is entitled to the chance. But I wouldn't try it if it was me."

"It's the toughest decision I've had to make since I've been on the council,"

Opening remarks in Chapin trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government prosecutor told a federal court jury today he would present a "short, direct and straightforward" case showing that former presidential aide Dwight L. Chapin "deliberately lied" to a federal grand jury.

But Chapin's attorney, Jacob Stein, told the jury "we don't foresee proving anybody is a liar."

Stein said testimony would show that many of the grand jury witnesses, including Chapin, had faulty memories.

Stein and assistant special Watergate prosecutor Richard Davis made 20-minute opening statements at Chapin's trial on four charges he lied to a grand jury about the political dirty tricks of Donald H. Segretti.

Davis said that prosecution witnesses would include Segretti; Herbert W. Kalmbach, former personal attorney to President Nixon and Segretti's paymaster; ousted White House Counsel John W. Dean III; and Angelo Lano, an FBI agent.

Davis said that he would present testimony and documents to show that, contrary to Chapin's grand jury testimony, Chapin was in frequent contact with Segretti and that he instructed Segretti to concentrate his activities on Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine when Muskie was a front runner for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

Davis said he would introduce into evidence a memorandum Chapin sent Segretti in which he recommended that Segretti try to prod Muskie into losing his temper.

Stein told the jury that the campaign activities of Segretti and Chapin were not the issue. He said the only issue was whether Chapin deliberately lied in his appearance before a Watergate grand jury on April 11, 1973.

He noted that Chapin was in the grand jury room, as is customary, without an attorney. There were three prosecutors in the room and Chapin was asked 306 questions, Stein said.

Chapin was being asked, his attorney said, to describe events "most of which occurred 22 months earlier."

Stein said his client was trying to answer as best as he could but "he was trying to be careful."

Stein indicated, without going into detail, that Chapin was trying to withhold the contents of a memorandum but disclosed them when asked a direct question.

He gave no further details about the memorandum.

Discuss energy-conservation information

A decision to investigate the possibility of publishing information on energy-conservation measures, which would be distributed throughout the state, was made Tuesday by the Missouri Energy Council at a meeting at State Fair Community College.

Dr: Bill Atchley, council chairman, appointed a three-man committee to study similar information developed by the J. C. Penney Co. and determine its feasibility for use as a council state-wide informational program. The committee consists of Bob Lantz and Jerry Driefke, St. Louis, and Jerome Kenyon, Jefferson City.

The group also discussed research currently underway to implement what Atchley termed "the re-refining of oil."

Because of a "possible future mineral shortage," Atchley said, this program is significant because it seeks to effectively treat excess sludge oil which, as an industrial waste product, cannot be buried or burned for environmental reasons. By further de-composing this sludge, Atchley explained, it will be possible to extract the raw lead which exists in the material.

At a press conference before the session, Atchley, who is also Gov. Christopher Bond's science adviser, emphasized the importance of cooperation between environmentalists and energy conservationists.

"In our efforts to conserve and secure new sources of energy, we feel it very, very important not to neglect environmental problems," he said. "We have to look at this together."

In addition to working with the state Fuel Allocation Board to deal with immediate energy shortage problems, the council is also involved in studying longer-range proposals, Atchley said.

Two such concepts, he said, "are the development of solar and wind energy." Because of the uncertainty of wind patterns in Missouri, Atchley said, wind energy cannot be solely relied on as it might be in Florida or other coastal areas where currents are more constant.

"In Missouri, we have to combine our efforts in developing solar and wind energy," he said. "We must use them together."

Solar energy, Atchley explained, could be potentially very beneficial because it could be converted to electrical energy and also to methane, for fuel purposes.

"The technology (for solar energy) still has to be put together, but it is very feasible, we believe," he said. "Missouri is a good state for these two sources to be combined together in the future."

In an afternoon session, Atchley explained, the council will further develop its state-wide policy recommendations for the state.

Atchley explained that the council is a non-funded advisory body, whose recommendations are subject to the scrutiny of Gov. Bond and approval of the state legislature. It has not presented any formal state-wide recommendation for the consideration of the legislature, Atchley said.

Mrs. Rheta Smith, earth science instructor at SFCC, is a member of the council.

The focal point of the 20-member board, formed at Gov. Bond's request seven months ago, is to formulate a state-wide energy conservation program that is compatible with regional and national plans, Atchley said.

May murder trial date is scheduled for Brown

The first-degree murder trial of Charles "Chuck" Brown, 53, 417 East St. Louis, has been set for May 22, 23 and 24 in Pettis County Circuit Court.

The trial date was set after Brown entered a plea of "not guilty" Monday in Circuit Court.

Brown is charged with the Jan. 22 shooting death of Richard Boggs, 20, 108 East Cooper. Boggs was shot twice, once through the heart, with a .30 caliber M-1 carbine at Brown's home.

Brown was bound over for trial to Circuit Court after his preliminary hearing Feb. 11 in Magistrate Court.

A witness at the preliminary hearing, Miss Gwendolyn Staten, 107 East Cooper, testified that she saw a rifle in Brown's possession moments after Boggs was shot. She also said that Brown and Boggs had an altercation prior to the shooting.

After the altercation, she said, Brown went to a back room in his house and appeared in the front room with a rifle, and asked Boggs to leave the premises. Shortly after this, Miss Staten said at the preliminary hearing, she heard the gunfire.

The altercation between Boggs and Brown reportedly was over Miss Staten.

Brown has remained in the Pettis County jail since his arrest by Sedalia police on Jan. 22. His bond is $50,000.

President's brother testifies

NEW YORK (AP) — F. Donald Nixon told a jury today that when a lawyer for financier Robert Vesco asked him to give a message to his brother, President Nixon, he suggested the lawyer contact John Mitchell instead.

"I never talked to my brother about anything. John Mitchell was the man I was told to talk to," Donald Nixon testified.

The 59-year-old brother of the President appeared as a government witness at the conspiracy trial of former Atty. Gen. Mitchell and ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans. They are accused of impeding a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of Vesco in return for Vesco's secret $200,000 cash contribution to the President's reelection campaign.

Donald Nixon, now a vice president of Marriott Corp., a restaurant and hotel chain, said that Howard Cerny, a Vesco lawyer he'd known for 10 years, called on him at his hotel just prior to the 1972 election.

"He told me there had been a $200,000 contribution to my brother's campaign and that an SEC investigation was in progress which would very likely expose the contribution, and he wanted to get that to the President."

Nixon said he told Cerny that that would be impossible because his policy was never to take anything directly to his brother.

"I made it very plain to Cerny that I did not want to get involved in any way with anything to do with the Vesco case," Nixon said.

He said Mitchell's name came up, but he didn't know whether he or Cerny mentioned it. At any rate, he said, he told Cerny he ought to see Mitchell, who had quit the government to run the President's campaign. He said he did not know whether Cerny ever contacted Mitchell.

Nixon said he wasn't sure whether his son, Donald Jr., 26, was still employed by Vesco now.

He said that the weekend after the election he got a telelphone call from his son, a Vesco aide, who put Vesco on the line. He said that he later called Vesco back.

Nixon said Vesco told him he wanted to get an envelope to Mitchell at the Essex House hotel in New York City. Nixon said he offered to call the manager of the hotel.

Under cross-examination by Mitchell's lawyer, Peter Fleming Jr., Nixon said that Vesco basically was asking how to get in touch with Mitchell and that "I wasn't about to give Mitchell's number to anyone."

Earlier testimony in the trial said that an envelope from Vesco addressed to Donald Nixon was delivered to the Essex House and eventually given to Mitchell.

Car break-ins are related to police

Two car break-ins over the weekend, both involving stereo tape equipment, were reported to police.

Dick Schultz, service manager for Sedalia Volkswagen, reported to police Monday that a car owned by N. L. Whitehurst, Whiteman AFB, was broken into and a combination radio-tape deck was stolen between 2 and 9:30 p.m. Sunday while parked on the lot.

He told police that a window was broken out of the car to gain entrance, and the dash was damaged when the radio-tape unit, valued at $74, was pried from it. Damage to the window and dash was estimated at $200.

A tape case and 24 tapes were stolen from a car belonging to Michael Manley, 2303 South Missouri, sometime Friday morning.

The merchandise, valued at $108, was taken while Manley was at school. Manley told police the car was locked at the time of the theft.

In other police news, thieves took a quantity of change from a soft drink machine at Town & Country Shoes, 201 North Missouri, sometime over the weekend. Entry into the building was gained by breaking a window on the north side.

Circuit Court action is taken on several cases

Several criminal cases were dealt with in Pettis County Circuit Court Monday, ranging from charges of theft to carrying a concealed weapon.

Albert President, 30, 444 West Saline, was sentenced to six months in the Pettis County jail after pleading guilty to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

President was arrested Jan. 27 by Sedalia police, with a .22 caliber hand gun in his possession.

A hearing was set for Wednesday in Circuit Court on President's application for probation and parole.

Eugene E. Stroder, 41, charged with escaping from a state institution, will face trial July 12, Larry Wayne Harvey, charged with stealing in excess of $50, goes to trial July 29; and John E. Walje, 25, 500 Dal-Whi-Mo, will be tried April 15 on a charge of second degree burglary and stealing.

Stroder allegedly escaped from his work detail at the State Fairgrounds Oct. 31, 1973. Harvey, 17, 1500 South Barrett, is charged in connection with a break-in at the Western Auto store on Feb. 22.

The trial of Hazel M. Priesmeyer, 25, 309 North Grand, was reset for 1:30 p.m. April 18. She is charged with stealing a car from Routszong-Malmo Motors, 2901 South Limit, June 30, 1972. Her trial was originally set for April 23, but was reset by mutual agreement.

William Dale Bentley, 47, Houstonia, pleaded not guilty to a third charge of driving while intoxicated. The third charge is a felony. His trial date was set for June 11.

Chris Hanes, 24, Napton, also pleaded not guilty to a charge of issuing an insufficient funds check of more than $100. His trial date was set for May 6. Hanes is charged with issuing an insufficient funds check of $619.42 on Sept. 24 last year to the Central Missouri Sales Co.

A motion to dismiss a child neglect charge against Mrs. Sharon Radi, a former Knob Noster woman, will be heard at 3 p.m. April 19. The charge stems from the July, 1972, death of Mrs. Radi's 3½-month-old daughter. The case is being heard in Sedalia on a change of venue from Johnson County Circuit Court in Warrensburg.

Two cases were dismissed in court Monday by Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming. Charges were dropped against Thaddus Fulford, 41, Ft. Smith, Ark., charged with stealing more than $50, and Daniel W. Allen, 21, 700 West Sixth, charged with issuing an insufficient funds check of more than $100.

Fulford's charge alleged that he failed to make payments to the Bryant Motor Co. on a 1969 Dodge Camper. Allen's charge alleged that he issued an insufficient funds check of $114.40 on May 15 last year to the G-Disco store.

Damage suits are dismissed in court here

Four damage suits were dismissed Monday in Pettis County Circuit Court.

Circuit Court Judge Frank Meyer dismissed a malpractice suit filed April 20, 1972, against a Sedalia osteopath.

The suit, filed by Caron Grandfield, and her parents, Cecil and Dorothy Grandfield, sought $55,000 from Dr. Ira M. White, 1701 South Lafayette.

The Grandfields alleged that Dr. White performed a wrong operation on five-year-old Caron after the girl reportedly suffered pain and had difficulty hearing in both ears.

In the second suit, Frank and Flora Eckerle dismissed their petition against Gerald D. Taylor, Charles E. Taylor and Merilene Elizabeth Bass. The suit was filed July 30, 1971.

The Eckerles were seeking a total of $82,000 from each defendant in connection with alleged injuries they received in 1966 in an auto accident on Route HH about 1.3 miles east of Route O.

In the third suit, Gale and Frances L. Van Slyke dismissed their damage claim against Gerald and Carolyn Heldebrand, Winston, Mo. The suit was filed Jan. 20, 1971.

The Van Slykes were asking for a total of $22,500 for injuries Gale Van Slyke received Aug. 17, 1970, in a two-car accident on Highway 65 near Route V. The Van Slykes also wanted $900 for damage to their car.

In the last suit, Bertha E. Kessner dismissed her damage suit against Marion S. Stockwell and Gary Dieckhoff. The suit was filed Aug. 28, 1969.

Bertha Kessner was asking for $25,000 for alleged injuries she received in a car accident on May 31, 1969, on Highway 50 near LaMonte.

The plaintiff contended she was injured when the car she was driving was forced from the road to avoid a car driven by Dieckhoff and owned by Stockwell.

Third Ward Democrat Carl Franklin said.

Franklin and several other council members had said at earlier meetings that they felt Poole would be throwing his money away trying to repair the structure.

"But I can't see keeping a man from trying something he really wants to do," Franklin said. "We could all use as much ambition as he has."

After agreeing to allow Poole to repair the structure, council members wished him luck on his project.

"Like I told Carl (Franklin) the other night, I'm going to give him the paint when he comes into my store," Dugan, who owns a paint store, said.

In an effort to prevent the same circumstances from arising again, the council directed City Counselor Bob Fritz to draw up an ordinance authorizing the building inspector to post a sign on structures which have been condemned giving notice of the condemnation proceedings. If passed, the ordinance will make it a violation for the owner of the structure to remove the sign.

Funds banked for Hearst food program

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Hearst Corp. announced today it had banked $4 million to be spent on a food distribution program — if Patricia Hearst's kidnapers release the girl unharmed within one month.

The announcement came as Patricia's sister Vicki made an impassioned appeal for her release.

"I need my sister," said Vicki, 17, in an open letter to the Symbionese Liberation Army. "The SLA says they are acting in response to the needs of 'the people.' Well, I'm part of the people and I have a very great need."

The SLA claims responsibility for the Feb. 4 abduction of Patricia, daughter of newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst.

The Hearst Corp. had promised Feb. 22 that if Patricia were released unharmed, it would provide $4 million for the food program demanded by the kidnapers. An earlier $2 million food giveaway ended after organizers ran out of funds.

In a statement released today in New York, the corporation noted that it had made the offer more than one month ago, but had received no word from the kidnapers.

The statement said: "As further evidence of its good faith, the Hearst Corp. today has deposited in escrow with Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco the sum of $4 million."

The corporation said it would withdraw its offer if Patricia is not released unharmed by May 3, 1974.

Patricia was abducted Feb. 4 by the terrorist SLA, the group said it was holding the girl as a "prisoner of war" because her parents were "corporate enemies of the people."

"Patricia Hearst is not a symbol of the 'Fascist middle class,'" Vicki's letter said. "She is a human being, and as such she has a right to life. If the SLA denies her that right, they commit a crime not only against this family, but against humanity."

One bid was received on curb and guttering work on Summit Avenue from Saline to Boonville and on the west side of Ingram from 19th to 20th streets.

The only bid received was from Wolf Construction Co., 204 North Mill, for $4,244.73. The engineer's estimate for the project was $4,280.40. The bid was turned over to the street and alley committee for acceptance or rejection.

Prior to the regular meeting, the council met in executive session with City Attorney Robert Liston. Mayor Jerry Jones said the meeting was to discuss the city's plumbing ordinance and the litigation involving the ordinance now being considered in Pettis County Circuit Court.

Witness says Boyle ordered assassination

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — "Ohhh, no!" W.A. "Tony" Boyle's wife gasped.

Her gasp came after a witness at the trial of the former president of the United Mine Workers testified Monday that Boyle ordered the assassination of union rival Joseph "Jock" Yablonski.

The accusation during Boyle's murder trial came from Paul Gilly, 40, a Cleveland house painter who has been convicted of murder and sentenced to death for the 1969 slaying of Yablonski.

Ethel Boyle also shook her head vigorously after Gilly's testimony for the prosecution in Delaware County Common Pleas Court.

Gilly, who faces cross-examination today, said that "in the summer of 1969" he met with his father-in-law, Silous Huddleston, who then was president of a small UMW local in LaFollette, Tenn., "and he said he wanted Yablonski killed."

"Did he mention who had given the order?" asked Special Prosecutor Richard A. Sprague. Gilly replied:

"Yes, he mentioned Mr. Prater's name. He mentioned Mr. Pass's name. He mentioned Mr. Boyle's name."

William Prater, 54, LaFollette, UMW field representative in Tennessee, and Albert Pass, 53, Middlesboro, Ky., secretary-treasurer of UMW District 19, were convicted last year of murdering Yablonski, his wife, Margaret, and daughter, Charlotte.

The Yablonskis were slain as they slept Dec. 31, 1969, in their rural Clarksville home in southwestern Pennsylvania. Boyle is now on trial for the murders.

Huddleston, 67; Gilly's wife, Annette; Claude Vealey, 28, Cleveland; and William J. Turnblazer, 52, Middlesboro, president of UMW District 19, all have pleaded guilty to participating in the Yablonski murder plot.

Aubran "Buddy" Martin, 25, of Cleveland, was also convicted of murder and sentenced to death.

Gilly testified that after he accepted the murder contract he met with Huddleston and Prater "and they both said Mr. Boyle wanted Mr. Yablonski killed in Washington, D.C."

condition of the energy shortage, Atchley emphasized his belief "that the people of this state, and throughout the country for that matter, should not relax their energy conservation efforts just because the (Arab oil) embargo has been lifted and summer is approaching.

"Just because people no longer have to heat their homes, many of them may feel like loosening their belts a little. But we just can't afford to do that yet. If I could get one thing across to the people of this state, it would be not to start splurging just because summer is coming with no fuel heating bills," he said.

Rate competition has come to Wall Street

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — On orders of the Securities and Exchange Commission, brokers now are experimenting with negotiated charges on orders for $2,000 or less of stock. Rate competition at last comes to Wall Street.

Under plans laid down by the commission, to some extent with the cooperation of the industry, the substitution of negotiated rates for fixed commissions will spread to all orders by April 1, 1975.

First indications are that charges will fall, but whether that will prevail is far from assured. Brokers planning lower rates have bragged about it, but many brokers have remained suspiciously silent.

About the best a small investor can hope for is about a $5 saving on the odd-lot purchase or sale of $1,000. At Merrill Lynch, for example, he might pay $20.65 on such an order, versus the old fixed rate of $25.30.

No matter how important the rate situation is in bringing back business, most Wall Streeters would agree that it is only one of several factors that must be dealt with before mass interest in the market is aroused again.

A bull market would excite people, but a bull market isn't likely to develop unless the mass of investors is already participating. And there are some obvious reasons why stock investments aren't popular.

Even the most forgiving cannot erase from their memories the debaucheries of the late 1960s when recordkeeping, common sense, ethics and money seemed to disappear into air.

Others are aware that stock markets aren't quite the random assemblage of buyers and sellers, small and large, rich and poor. Not when 70 per cent of trading on the New York Stock Exchange is by institutions.

These institutions, such as pension and mutual funds, bank trusts and insurance companies, have enormous influence on stock prices, in some instances being able to whipsaw the stocks which small investors hold.

There is the matter of taxes too. Many leaders of the investment community, and heads of corporations which depend on it for financing, are convinced that capital gains taxes are too high.

If taxes were lowered, they say, many investors would be encouraged to seek appreciation in stocks instead of putting their funds into bonds and savings accounts that pay interest.

The introduction of negotiated rates on small orders is, it appears, just the beginning of a long uphill fight to return popular interest to a market that just a decade ago was the hope of millions.

Heart attack is fatal for columnist Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Hal Boyle, a gentle spirit in an ungentle world, has died at 63.

Harold Vincent Boyle was for 30 years as much a fixture in hundreds of American newspapers as the weather report. His promise was always, in 7,680 columns for The Associated Press, a brighter tomorrow.

Boyle died of a heart attack at his home here Monday.

Funeral arrangements tentatively include a memorial service in New York, where he worked more than half his life as a daily columnist. Burial will be in Kansas City, Mo., the place of his birth.

Boyle's death came four months after he had learned that he was the victim of a rare, crippling, incurable disease — amyotrophic lateral schlerosis. The disease is more commonly known as "Lou Gehrig's disease" because it felled the famed baseball player.

In his last column, which appeared Feb. 22, Boyle wrote:

"I hate to relinquish my daily column because writing it has been ... a magic adventure that enabled me to meet thousands of people, 67 countries and every continent but the Antarctic.

"I am somewhat abashed that my wordage output is four times more than that of William Shakespeare. But I savor the fact that it enabled me to have more bylined stories on the main wires of The Associated Press than any other writer in its 126 years."

Boyle won early fame as a war correspondent. But in the unsettled times between conflicts he solaced and soothed millions of readers with gentle thoughts such as this:

"If the Lord whispers in your secret heart that you had but one month to live and let you pick that month, which would you choose. I'd say October.

"The wind of night now has become a violin playing a love song for the young, a last tune of youth for the old ..."

Boyle, with thousands of GIs, stumbled into World War II on the shores of Africa. He walked with them to Berlin, then lugged his typewriter to the Pacific theater to chronicle their daily experiences on that front.

His column became a staple in more than 700 newspapers. He wrote about such things as "the dazed relief of climbing out of the ditch, moments later weak-kneed but knowing for the first time how wonderful it is to be really alive ... when someone is trying to take life from you."

For his "distinguished correspondence" he was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in 1944, but an equally treasured prize was the Omar N. Bradley award of the Veterans of Foreign Wars won in 1950 for his Korean war coverage.

From Vietnam, the third war Boyle covered, he began one column as an open letter to his wife and daughter:

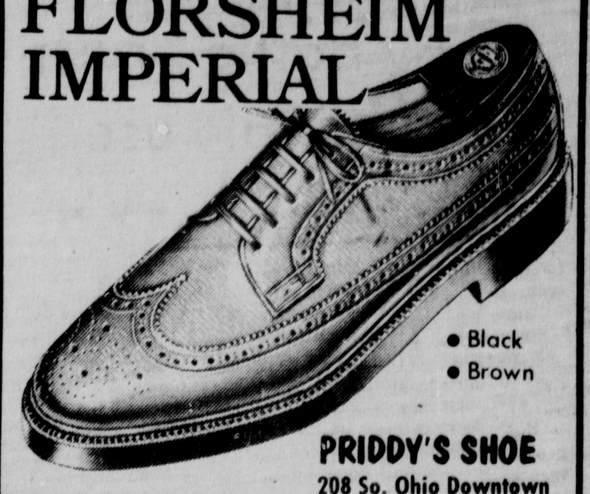

"You may be wondering what's going on here. So do I."

Boyle was the son of a butcher and an Irish immigrant farm girl. He began his career as a copyboy in the AP bureau in Kansas City in 1928 and after a short tour in the AP St. Louis bureau moved to New York in 1936.

In 1937 Boyle married Mary Frances Young, whom he met in Kansas City. She died in 1968. They had one daughter, Tracy Ann, 20, who survives.

Baby bottle brush has multiple use

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the packers of spices. I may need a new one for just one recipe but am forced to buy a big can. Often the remainder goes to waste. It seems they could put spices in smaller packages.

I am often kept from trying some new recipe because I do not have the spice or herb on hand and do not want to buy big containers as they can run into money. If I am trying a recipe the first time the family may not like it and I would never use that particular seasoning again. — MRS. H.

DEAR POLLY — Do tell Dorothea that when I make pine needle pillows I cut only the fresh new light green ends of my favorite pine needles. When enough needles for a pillow have been accumulated, pull the little needles off the twigs and remember it does take a lot of them to fill a pillow. I like those from balsam pine trees. They give off the most fragrant aroma and last many years. — MRS. G.B.

DEAR POLLY — My hands chapped even when I wore rubber gloves. Now I wear a pair of white cotton gloves under the rubber ones. When removed the cotton ones are clipped to one clothespin and the rubber ones to another. — B.A.

DEAR POLLY — The first thing I do to a new pair of coveralls for baby is to sew an extra set of buttons on the straps. No more changing buttons as baby grows older and larger. When the next baby comes one does not have to start all over again with the buttons.

Now that we are all so conscious of saving energy I am using my pressure cooker more regularly for cooking many kinds of meat and vegetables and use half the amount of heat. I also have pulled out my double boiler and find vegetables can be cooked in the bottom at the same time gravy or sauces are heated in the top and I eliminate the use of a second stove burner.

Also, my husband told me that my dryer runs 10 to 15 minutes longer to dry a load of clothes when it is raining or very humid outside. Now I do my laundry on dry days when possible. — RITA.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — Can someone suggest a good cleaning agent to run through my washing machine to rinse away buildup of soap scum?

My Pointer is that a baby bottle brush is really handy for wahing out thermos bottles or any long narrow containers or vases. I keep such a brush to use strictly for baby's bottles and another for the thermos bottles my husband takes to work. — ELAINE.

With a '70s twist

Good old days in men's fashion are back

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK — Fashion has always been a clue to the way of life in any particular era. So one way to learn how people are living, thinking and feeling is to take a gander at fashion trends through the ages.

Lester Frankenstein, of men's wear manufacturers Michaels-Stern, which celebrates 125 years in business this year, said, "We decided to look back over the past 125 years — to compare yesterday's fashion trends with those of today. And we also looked ahead to see what might be in store for the future.

"Body language experts tell us that people use signals to get their ideas across. Well, the way people dress indicates their feelings and atttitudes in much the same respect. And today these signals are clearer than ever."

Never before has there been such a strong sense of going back — searching for tradition. And the trend which has already spanned a decade of fleamarket and army-surplus intrigue has spread even further. There is the resurgence of music and theater of the '30s, '40s and the '50s. And look at the success enjoyed by films set in the good old days — even the renewed interest in old radio programs.

Psychologists and sociologists attribute some of this to the fact that the young are troubled by modern times. They seem to be searching for something less disquieting than the threat of nuclear war. And they are disenchanged with government and one economic crisis after another.

"Political and economic strife is hardly peculiar to modern times," Frankenstein said. "It's easier to romanticize in retrospect the trying periods of a bygone era. And for young people who were not directly exposed to yesterday's problems it's even tougher. Sure they hear about World War Two, the depression of the Thirties. But these tales often are told in very romantic and adventurous terms by parents and grandparents who lived through them."

How is all of this reflected in clothing? Well, though many old traditions are shattered, such as the idea of soft clothing for women and angular clothing for men, elements of early styling are reflected in today's fashions. The major difference is that today tailored clothing is designed for comfort as well as good taste. Softer concepts are seen in modern construction techniques and in the use of softer fabrics. Fashion today offers much greater variety than the modes of earlier times. People are seeking avenues of self-expression in fashion, largely to compensate for loss of individuality.

"I believe," Frankenstein said, "that in the future — say by the year 2000 — even the loosely structured boundaries of today that set off one peer group from another will be shed. I believe that fashion not only will reflect less discomfort and strangeness, but will foster a diminishing of prejudices — social, cultural, racial and even intergenerational. We won't feel odd or uncomfortable in the company of others who are not like us and who express their differences in the clothes they wear. People will truly do their own thing in dressing — knowing they'll be accepted by everyone."

The layered look

As flappers bobbed their hair and hemlines rose scandalously up to the knees, the Roaring Twenties influenced men's fashions, too. Knickers, right, were the "cat's meow" on the golf course and before long this active sportswear look became the style for fashionable spectators at the club as well. Slacks and sportcoat ensemble, left, is characteristic of the '74 version of layering.

By 1910 Americans were worried about not being able to buy a drink. And Honor They Father became an annual occasion on the calendar right along with Mother's Day. Youth had its fling on the back porch. That decade Barney Oldfield drove 133 m.p.h. and with that feat came the popularity of the old driving "duster coat."

A new decade and 100-million people welcomed the roaring '20s. Back-porch spooning was replaced by the rumble seat. Young "Sheiks and Shebas" said their elders were not with it. Sound familiar? At that time men's suits narrowed. Waists were trimmer (a forerunner of the '60s trend) and the look was smaller, slender and neat.

Knickers were "in" on the golf course. But before long this active sportswear look became the style for spectators as well. The '20s layered look emerged with the knickers sport suit teamed with the Fair Isle sweater over tight-collared shirts. Today's version of "layering" emulates it, but plaids and other patterns have traveled from accessories to coats and pants.

Emulating the look of matinee idols and the notorious bootleggers of the day, men went for the broad, double-breasted suit, usually in dark, pin stripes. The look was completed with wider lapels by the late '30s. It was enhanced with wide lapels, broad-brimmed hats, long gold key chains and the soft "George Raft" polo coat.

World War II brought an end to the excessive fabric look. Clothing became skimpier and not until the late '40s did wide lapels, wide-brimmed hats and pleated trousers return.

"From our view of history to what's happening now," Frankenstein said, "our first 1974 model, the Eaton suit, reflects the flowing contour of the 1868 frockcoat with tails — but its shape is accented with darts and stitch detailing.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Some 595,386,000 tons of soft coal was mined in the United States in 1972, of which 275,730,000 tons (46 per cent) was strip-mined, The World Almanac notes. Kentucky Knetucky strip-mined the most soft coal, 55.8 million tons; followed by Ohio, 34.1 million; Illinois, 33.3 million; Pennsylvania, 26.3 million and Indiana, 24.5 million tons. In 1964, only 152 million tons (31 per cent) of America's soft coal production was strip-mined.

Fishermen won't buy Nixon's line

WASHINGTON — At this point in time it seems to me that President Nixon and his small band of hardy defenders would be careful not to alienate any group in this country unnecessarily. The White House probably doesn't even realize it, but it has made practically every fisherman in American boiling mad.

Buchwald

Foster Walden, a friend and devoted angler, told me: "Every time the House Judiciary Committee asks for a piece of paper or a tape the President accuses them of going on a fishing expedition."

"What's wrong with that?"

"Nixon seems to indicate that there's something wrong with fishing."

"Come on, Foster, you're oversensitive."

"I am not," he said angrily. "Fishing, thanks to the administration, now has a dirty connotation to it. Just yesterday I told some friends at the office I was going on a fishing expedition this weekend, and they said they were going to report me to security."

"That's ridiculous, Foster. When Nixon or the White House accuses the House committee of going on a fishing expedition they're not talking about fishing."

"What are they talking about?" he demanded.

"They're talking about the House asking for records and tapes that they have no business asking for."

"Well, why don't they just say that?"

"Because it's easier to explain it to the American people if you say they're on a fishing expedition."

"What has fishing got to do with Watergate?"

"Well, I guess the first image that comes to mind is someone sitting there holding a pole in his hand who doesn't know what he's doing."

"You see. That means if you go fishing you're stupid," Foster said.

"Not necessarily. It could also mean you're trying to get some poor defenseless fish to bite on your hook."

"That's even worse," Foster yelled angrily. "Fishing is one of the greatest sports in the world. You don't harm anyone. You don't bother anyone. You sit there with your thoughts and you forget all about the mess they made of everything in Washington. Why did they have to drag dirty politics into fishing?"

"I guess because the White House feels that if the American people feel the House committee is on a fishing expedition, they'll believe Congress is up to no good. After all, Foster, most people do think fishing is an asinine way to pass the time."

Foster was livid. "It is not a stupid way to pass the time, and if all those people who got messed up in Watergate had gone fishing instead of what they did, they wouldn't be in the trouble they're in today. Fishermen at least have enough sense to stay out of muck and mire."

"Those are harsh words, Foster," I said. "Look at it from Nixon's point of view. He has to use every defense he can. If he can prove Congress is just fishing, he can save himself from being impeached. After all, that's all he's got left."

"He's such a big football fan," Foster said. "Why couldn't he accuse Congress of roughing the kicker?"

"It's not the same thing. The one thing Americans understand is that fishing is a poor way to hook a President."

"Not if you use worms for bait."

Foster chuckled at his own joke.

A conservative view

Changing the flow of power

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — Almost without public notice, the Congress last week passed a watershed point. By this summer, if all goes well, a Budget Reform Act will be in full operation, and the relationship between the legislative and executive branches will have been significantly altered.

Kilpatrick

The watershed metaphor is remarkably appropriate. Geographically speaking, Washington's river is the Potomac. Politically speaking, our river is power. For the past, 40 years, first slowly and then in flood, this river of power has been channeled toward the White House. The movement began even before Franklin Delano Roosevelt. It continues to this day. Now, with the Budget Reform Act, some part of governmental power will begin to flow back toward the House and Senate.

The growth of what Arthur Schlesinger has termed the "imperial" presidency was perhaps inevitable. Part of this massive trend of power toward the executive was the result of population changes and social demands. Our people became less rural and more urban, and the accelerating urbanization created accelerating problems. When state and local governments failed to cope with the problems, a host of federal agencies sprang into being. These agencies, dealing with welfare, medical care, housing, urban redevelopment, industrial safety, and environmental improvement, swiftly became entrenched in the broad field of government.

The years since Roosevelt have seen other developments — space exploration, for example, and atomic power — that led to highly sophisticated federal agencies. The changing nature of warfare tended to vest greater authority in the presidency. Inflation sent all governmental costs soaring.

Sen. Sam Ervin spoke to the situation last month. In January, he said, when the budget for fiscal '75 went to the Hill, it was "with a sense of helplessness" that Congress contemplated the figures. This budget "breaks the $300 billion barrier, lifts the federal debt above the half-trillion mark, increases federal spending $36 billion above the amount first estimated for this year, requires $30 billion just to pay interest costs on the public debt, and delivers the fourteenth budget deficit in the past 15 years."

"At the rate the budget is growing," Ervin added, "it will exceed $400 billion during this decade. By the time the U.S. celebrates the 200th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence in 1976, the government will be spending more than $1 billion a day, with no letup on Sundays or holidays."

Congress, in Ervin's view, has lost control. The White House effectively has decreed what will be spent and what will not be spent. And a Congress "that cannot control spending, cannot effectively control the executive branch either."

With approval last week of a Budget Reform Act, the Senate took a major step toward regaining congressional stewardship. The Senate bill must be reconciled with a House bill, but the outlines of a new structure are clear. For the first time, the Congress will have its own Office of the Budget. For the first time, the House and Senate will fix their own spending levels. For the first time, Congress will operate with a comprehensive picture of revenues coming in and expeditures going out.

The Budget Reform Act is not as strong as some conservative observers had hoped for, but probably we hoped for too much. As passed by the Senate, the act is immensely encouraging. It lays a foundation on which future Congresses can build additional barricades against executive power. True, the "imperial" presidency will not be deposed overnight, but if this act works as its sponsors believe it will work, future presidents will be something less than kings.

Indian Ocean base essential to West

The Defense Department is asking for $32.3 million to expand the small U.S. facility on the British-owned island of Diego Garcia into a support base. The undertaking would be a joint Anglo-American venture.

Plans involve deepening the tiny island's lagoon to handle larger vessels, constructing a supply and repair depot for U.S. warships, and improving the runway to handle long-range patrol aircraft and tankers.

Diego Garcia would enable the Navy to maintain a respectable force in the Indian Ocean without straining its resources, which it is now required to do from its closest base in the Philippines.

U.S. military planners say the base is necessary to counter the Soviet naval presence in the Indian Ocean, which at last report involved some 30 warships. The Russians have been steadily expanding their naval presence in the area since 1968, when their units first appeared. And once the Suez Canal is reopened, they will find it even easier to deploy units in the area on short notice.

Given the political situation in the Mideast, and recognizing the necessity to protect vital sea lanes to the region's oil supplies, it should be clear that the U.S. Navy can't simply sit on its hands and watch the Russians turn the Indian Ocean into their private lake.

Yet a bloc of Senate Democrats has seized on Diego Garcia as a "provocative" U.S. move that will accelerate U.S.-Russian competition in the area. "I see no clear indication that the Soviet Union wants an Indian Ocean naval arms race," said Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.

This is no doubt the case. Moscow would be much happier to see the U.S. back off and let it win the "race" by default. Evidently, the senator is only capable of seeing one side of the story.

Watergate claims official of CIA

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The Watergate has claimed a major victim in the Central Intelligence Agency with the forced retirement of its dedicated director of security, Howard Osborn.

A veteran of 26 years at the cloak-and-dagger complex, the 56-year-old Osborn was caught up in the suppression of a mysterious CIA memo which described how documents were burned at the home of Waterbugger James McCord, an ex-CIA agent.

The secret memo was based on information supplied by a former FBI inspector, Lee Pennington, who was then working with the CIA as a paid "consultant."

Pennington, an old family friend of the McCords, had visited Mrs. McCord after her husband was arrested inside Democratic headquarters in June 1972. He found her burning papers and documents. Earlier, she had burned typewriter ribbons.

Pennington loyally reported the episode to his CIA bosses and the CIA wrote it up in memo form. For more than a year and a half, it lay in the CIA files like a paper bomb.

Meanwhile, FBI sleuths were asking embarrassing questions about whether the CIA knew of destroyed documents from among McCord's papers and were getting persistent denials from the CIA.

Finally, Senate Watergate Committee Vice Chairman Howard Baker, R-Tenn., began snooping into the CIA role in the cover-up and a middle-level CIA employe who knew of the hidden memo threatened to blow the whistle. After some panicky debate, CIA Director William Colby was reluctantly told of the suppressed memo.

Colby quickly contacted Rep. Lucien Nedzi, D-Mich., chairman of a House intelligence subcommittee. They agreed that the best course was to let all Capitol Hill committees involved in the Watergate probe as well as Leon Jaworski's special prosecutors know about the cover-up memo.

Nedzi, after full hearings with Pennington, McCord and CIA officials, including Osborn, concluded that the CIA had not dispatched Pennington to burn the papers as the memo seemed to suggest. Osborn claimed he did not even know of the memo. Nevertheless, Nedzi and Colby were both worried about the cover-up.

"It led to the early retirement of Osborn," Nedzi told us. When we reached the ex-CIA security boss at his home near the agency he had served so long, he clung firmly to his oath of secrecy.

"I had planned for over a year to retire in June," Osborn insisted gamely. "I realized there was no financial benefit to staying and decided to retire ..."

NAVY BLUES: A defense contractor has charged that a boyhood friend of Sen. Russell Long, D-La., offered the senator's services for $150,000 to settle the contractor's dispute with the Navy.

The unwitting Long, chairman of the Powerful Senate Finance Committee, knew nothing of the offer, according to his office, nor has our investigation showed Long ever authorized it. J. Roy Becnel, who is accused of making the offer, swore to us: "I never asked for a dime. I never expected anything."

In direct contradition to Becnel, the contractor, Lewis Malnak, of Cherry Hill, N.J., has told questioning Internal Revenue Service investigators that Becnel sought cash for his services.

Malnak, president of Lew Malnak Associates, went to Becnel in 1972 for help in settling a $750,000 contract claim with the Navy. Malnak, says he had heard Becnel knew Long and that Becnel identified himself as a "bag man" for the Louisiana senator.

Malnak swears that Becnel asked for $50,000 in cash "to get the claim settled immediately" through Long's office. When Malnak protested that he lacked such a large sum, Becnel suggested that he boost his claim above $1 million and pay $150,000 if Becnel's efforts were successful, according to Malnak.

Malnak, with no important contracts in Washington, had tried several times unsuccessfully to see Long's top aide, Bob Hunter. Once Becnel became involved in the case, the barriers fell quickly.

"They walked Becnel in like he was a member of the staff," Malnak recalls. He claims Hunter promised to "look into (the case) because Becnel asked him to." Malnak's logs show he met with Hunter three times in 1972.

At the last meeting, Malnak says, he felt Hunter had lost interest. Malnak says he never promised nor paid Becnel a commission, nor ever talked money with Hunter.

In commenting on the case, Hunter says he has known Becnel for years, as has Sen. Long. Hunter recalls meeting with Malnak at Becnel's request, but says he did nothing to help Malnak.

Becnel, a former justice of the peace and drainage contractor, hotly contests Malnak's story. "I'm not a satchel man," he steamed. "I never knew Russell (Long) to take a dime. I'll get hold of Malnak and break his neck."

FOOTNOTE: Malnak's interest is in getting his claim settled. He charges he was "blackballed" after his detection equipment discovered that the Navy has bought faulty distress-warning devices for Polaris subs. Reps. Edwin Forsythe, R-N.Y., and Les Aspin, D-Wis., have asked for a complete Justice Department probe of the Navy's handling of the case.

JUNTA HUSTLE: The Treasury Department has informed Rep. Henry Gonzales, D-Tex., that it supports a $23.5 million World Bank loan to the Greek military junta "so that Greece can take advantage of its Association Agreement" with the Common Market.

The truth is that the Common Market virtually suspended Greece in 1967 when it fell under a dictatorship. A Treasury spokesman told us there was "no intention to deceive."

Patients billed for tape, bandages

Dear Ann Landers: This morning I got so steamed up when I read your column, I HAD to write. I refer to the dumbbell who was concerned about the patient who took the roll of adhesive tape home from the hospital ("stealing," she called it). Let me tell you if the patient had the tape in her room, she was billed for it, and had every right to take it home.

I am not standing up for people who take bed linen, holy pictures, furniture, pillows, and anything that isn't nailed down. But if you want to get to the heart of the stealing problem, not only in hospitals but in supermarkets, offices and manufacturing plants, you'd be shocked to learn how much of it is done by the employes. They have access to supply rooms and boy, do they haul away plenty! — Sign Me Eyewitness

Dear Eye: I decided to check your facts with an authority, so I phoned a friend of mine on the West Coast (who prefers to remain anonymous), Director of Fiscal Services of one of the country's finest hospitals. This is what he said:

Dear Ann Landers: Patients are billed for, and are therefore entitled to take home, partly used rolls of adhesive tape, bandages, mouthwash, etc. Furniture, bed linens, crucifixes and pictures however, are not in this category.

Hospitals share the problems of hotels and motels, retail and wholesale stores in that employes as well as customers often pilfer products for their own use.

Obviously, many factors motivate people to steal, whether they are customers, patients, or employes. Inflation and the rising costs of living are making the pilfering problems worse.

Unfortunately, this produces a vicious cycle, forcing costs up even further. In the case of hospitals, many of which are operated on a nonprofit basis, cost increases must be passed along to future patients.

Hospitals have been under tremendous pressure from the government and the public to cut costs. The best place to start is by educating the public to the fact that when they pilfer, they are, in the long run, going to pay for whatever they steal. Sincerely — Experienced In The Field

Dear Ex: Many thanks for telling it like it is. People who lift things should be aware that they are going to pay for it eventually.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a male freshman, age 18, attending a liberal school in the East, and I do not believe in premarital sex. I base this on reasons that have to do with my own personal philosophy, plus the fact that I have four lovely sisters.

Whenever I return to the dorm after a date with a chick, the first question I get from any one of ten or twelve guys is, "Did you score?"

I don't want to look like a square (or a failure), but I am not comfortable about cutting the guys in on my views on sex before marriage. Please come up with a tactful and noncommittal response, funny if possible. — S.O.S. From Stoneybrook

Dear S.O.S.: Skip the funny stuff and answer the question directly: None of your business. You make no commitment, tell no lies — and you give the clods a solid statement of fact, because it IS none of their business.

Sentencing is set in moonshine case

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sentencing has been set for April 19 for Dail T. Jackson, 44, who has pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing alcoholic spirits without tax stamps.

Jackson pleaded guilty to the charge Monday in U.S. District Court. He was arrested last December after federal agents found 122 gallons of the moonshine stored in plastic containers in a garage.

He faces a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine or five years in jail or both.

How significant is fainting spell?

Dear Dr. Lamb — I would like to know what "vaso-vagal reflex" means. A couple of weeks ago, after eating dinner, I started to get up from the table, and I passed out. I was out 15 to 20 minutes. My blood pressure at that time was 112-60.

I am 72 and have very good health and have never fainted before. After I came out of this fainting spell I felt as good as I ever have.

Next day I went to my doctor and he gave me a checkup and said everything was fine. My blood pressure then was 148-88, and that's what it usually is.

He said I had overeaten, but I'm not a big eater. He explained this to me, but I didn't understand all of it. He said it probably wouldn't happen again, as it doesn't happen very often. Would like to know what you think.

Dear Reader — Many people faint without it having any significance. This is particularly true in young people.

A common cause of fainting is the "vaso-vagal reflex." Through reflex mechanisms involving the vagus nerve, the blood tends to accumulate in the lower part of the body. The arteries overdilate, and the veins fill with too much blood. When this happens there simply isn't enough blood to flow uphill to the brain. When you lie down the blood flows normally to the brain, and you recover.

The catch is what causes the reflex. In young people standing, as in parade formation, it is usually not medically important. You may remember a few years back pictures of the Air Force Academy cadets flaked out on the ground after fainting while in formation. People can have this reflex triggered from the sight of blood, a shot, or a variety of emotional stimuli.

Every unexplained faint does deserve a careful examination. In people over 50 it is more often an indication of some medical problem. Its exact nature may not be apparent at first. It can be caused from changes in the arteries in the neck or even in the brain. In rare cases it is a sign of a heart attack. About the only thing the doctor can do if the medical examination is normal is to wait and see if anything else shows up later.

I'm doubtful that your faint was simply nothing. I have made a special study of fainting problems. When I used to see the Air Force pilots and the astronauts, fainting was a big problem because it isn't a good idea to have a pilot fainting while flying jet aircraft. After seeing several hundred cases, I was impressed that fainting in the older person was not often just nothing, and, quite significantly, fainting seldom occurred in a person who was seated. The only major exceptions were those young men seeing a particularly gory movie on aircraft accidents — a film that induced a high faint rate.

I think you should go back to your doctor soon for a follow-up examination. It could be that you have gotten up too soon and were standing longer than you thought. In any case, it won't hurt to have a follow-up for a while to be sure that nothing else develops.

SFCC thumps St. Paul's

Johnson, Crank bats ring in 13-2 win

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

Charles Johnson and Derrick Crank knocked in nine of State Fair Community College's 13 runs on four hits — three of which were off Johnson's ringing club — as the Roadrunners opened their home season with a 13-2 rout over St. Paul's of Concordia Monday in Liberty Park Stadium.

Johnson, who wound up in a second-place tie in the home run derby during the 1973 Central Missouri Ban Johnson League campaign, had a perfect day at the plate, going three-for-three and driving in six runs.

Crank, one of the smallest players on Coach Foster McGuire's club, clouted a three-run homer in the fourth inning.

Johnson, a .322 hitter last season and fourth in rbi in the CMBJL last season, drove in two runs in each the first, second and third innings. He also turned in a fine job defensively, starting out a nifty double play that ended the game. Johnson, California, short-hopped a bouncer off the bat of Jon Vogel, fired to second. The relay to first baseman Keith White was in time and the Roadrunners notched their second win against one loss.

The Roadrunners erupted for four runs in the first off starting and losing St. Paul's right-hander Jared Weiss. Crank opened the game with a double into left-center. After Keith White grounded back to the pitcher for the first out of the inning, Randy McQuery walked, bringing up Johnson for the first time. He promptly tripled, driving in the two runners.

Charles Shell followed with a triple of his own that drove in Johnson. Shell later scored on an error by shortstop Vic Kollman.

St. Paul's countered with one in the top of the second, but four more runs by the Roadrunners in the bottom of the inning salted the game away.

With the bases loaded, Johnson singled up the middle to drive in his third and fourth runs of the game. Shell grounded to second basemen Paul Hoyer, who attempted to gun down McQuery breaking for home. The throw was high, allowing McQuery in safely. Johnson moved into third and Shell to second on the play.

The eighth run scored, when Johnson came home on a wild pitch.

Catcher Willie Reid and Crank came home in the bottom of the third on another single by Johnson. That moved the score to 10-2.

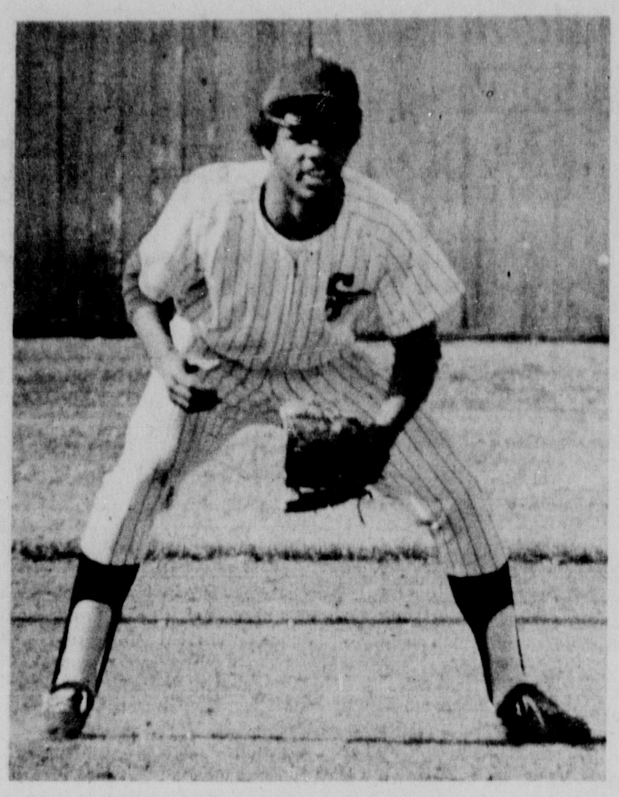

With one out in the bottom of the fourth, Terry Neal drew a walk and Willie Reid grounded one to Kollman, who went to second to cut down the lead runner. But the play never connected, leaving Neal safely at second and Reid on first.

George Hudson, the SFCC right-hander who went the distance for the victory, popped out to first. That brought up Crank, who lifted a high fly toward the right field fence. Spanked by the wind, the ball just cleared the 294-foot marker down the line for his three-run homer. Crank, who was hit by a pitch and walked in his other two trips, wound up two-for-two to go along with his three runs batted in.

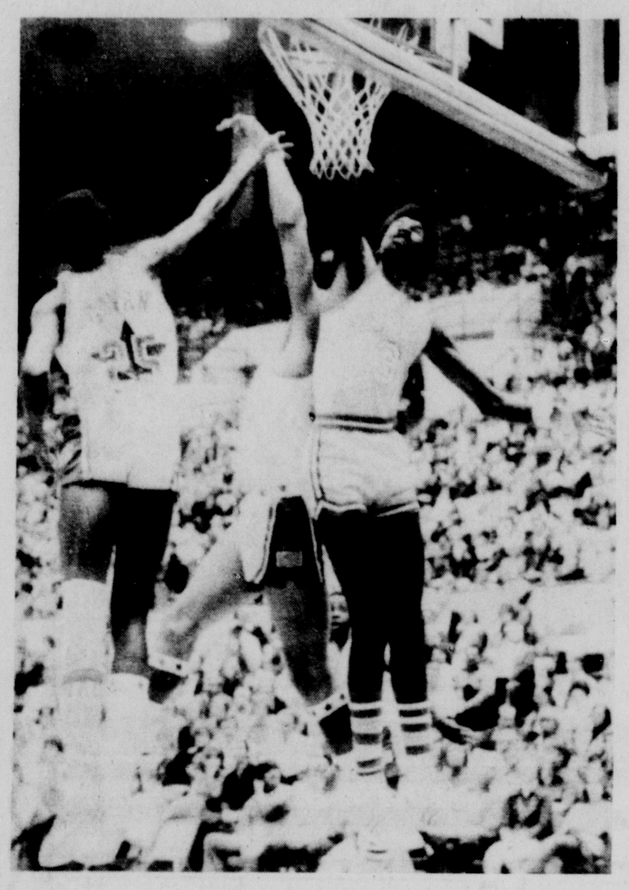

The game was called at the end of five and one-half innings on the 10-run rule.

SFCC was scheduled to meet Johnson County, Kan., Community Junior College Tuesday afternoon in Liberty Park. One other home date is scheduled this week for the Roadrunners; that's set for Thursday, when Linn, Mo., Tech visits for a twinbill.

The SFCC tourney, scheduled for this weekend in Liberty Park, has been moved to the weekend of May 4-5, according to McGuire.

All hands up

San Diego's Caldwell Jones (3) gets behind Utah's Zelmo Beaty and Gerald Govin (25) as he goes up for a rebound in the first period of playoff action Monday night in Salt Lake City. The Stars, behind Govan's 25 points, downed the Conquistadores 119-105 in the second game of the ABA playoff series between the two clubs. Utah moved ahead in the playoffs two games to none. (UPI)

Bulls end playoff jinx

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

The Chicago Bulls finally have won their first-ever playoff game on the road, but it isn't exactly with optimism that Coach Dick Motta views the milestone.

"We didn't break the ice tonight; there was no ice. It's a new game tomorrow," Motta said Monday night after the Bulls evened their best-of-7 National Basketball Association Eastern Conference playoff against Detroit at 1-1 with a 108-103 victory.

"I expect each team will lose another home game before the series is over," Motta added. Each team now has won on the other's court, with the series returning to Chicago Friday.

The Detroit-Chicago game was the only NBA playoff action Monday, but there were four American Basketball Association quarter-finals.

In those ABA playoffs, New York took a 2-0 East Division advantage over Virginia by beating the Squires 129-110; Kentucky beat Carolina 118-102 in their first East Division game; Indiana bludgeoned San Antonio 128-101, evening that West Divison series at 1-1, and Utah jumped to a 2-0 lead over San Diego in the West with a 119-105 victory over the Conquistadors.

Bob Love got 38 points and Chet Walker added 20 to a revived Chicago offense. "Our offense did a better job tonight," Motta said. "Our defense did as good a job as they did Saturday when they held Detroit to 97 points and lost."

There are no ABA playoff games tonight, but in the NBA, Boston takes a 1-0 advantage into Buffalo in the Eastern Conference, Capital and the Knicks will break a 1-1 tie at New York in their East series, and the Milwaukee Bucks, holding a 2-0 edge in the West Conference, play in Los Angeles. Laker officials have indicated that superstar guard Jerry West may be back in the line-up for that one.

Nets 129, Squires 110

Julius Erving scored 16 of his game-high 35 points in the second quarter, staking the Nets to a 24-point halftime lead en route to a convincing victory over Virginia.

The series now moves to Virginia for two games, and Squires Coach Al Bianchi says, "We've always played them well at home. A sweep is always possible, but anything can happen in Virginia."

Colonels 118, Cougars 102

"I guess we'll just have to circle the wagons because the Indians came tonight," said Carolina Coach Larry Brown, after Kentucky's Artis Gilmore massacred the Cougars with 33 points, 19 rebounds and six blocked shots.

Pacers 128, Spurs 101

Billy Keller scored 27 points on nine buckets, all three-pointers, and wound up with 39 to lead Indiana. The nine triples set a new ABA playoff record.

Forward George McGinnis also had 30 points for Indiana, and Rich Jones led San Antonio with 26.

Stars 119, Conquistadors 105

Gerald Govan grabbed 19 rebounds and Willie Wise scored 23 points to give the Stars "such a commanding lead right from the beginning that our people had a lot of freedom throughout the game," said Utah Coah Joe Mullaney.

Kostopolus spins another 1-hitter

(Democrat-Capital Service)

INDEPENDENCE — Paul Kostopolus, Smith-Cotton's top right-hander, pitched his second consecutive one-hitter of the young season Monday as the Tigers posted a 3-0 victory over William Chrisman.

But the Tigers lost their first decision of the year in the second game, when Truman wrestled away a 2-1 decision in the nightcap.

Kostopolus, now 2-0, gave up his only hit of the day in the seventh and final inning when Bill Glenn opened the home half of the frame with a single. Kostopolus retired the next three batters in going the distance.

S-C picked up single runs in the fourth, fifth and seventh to lock up their fourth win of the season in the opener.

Brian Kennon doubled with one out and later scored on a single by catcher Pete Kostopolus to open the Tigers' one-run frames.

In the fifth, Ron Ehlers walked, moved into third on a single by Randy Pettit and scored on a wild pitch by Jack Booth.

Jim Sanders knocked in the other Smith-Cotton run in the seventh, when he drove in Jim Vansell with a double.

Four William Chrisman pitchers scattered six hits, but the Tigers made the most of them.

The loss was tagged on Gilbert McBride, William Chrisman's second relief pitcher of the afternoon.

Truman drew first blood in the nightcap, scoring a run in the bottom of the second, but Smith-Cotton tied it up in the fifth when Pettit came home on a wild pitch with only one out.

The Tigers left two runners stranded in the fifth when Randy Smith retired Rick McRoy on a grounder back to the pitcher and struck out Sanders.

Mark Thomason started for Smith-Cotton and worked until Greg Bechtel relieved him in the fourth. Bechtel was relieved by Mark Stockstill in the bottom of the sixth.

Stockstill was tagged for the loss when Truman pushed across the winning run in the home half of the seventh. After retiring the lead off batter, Stockstill walked Melvin Walker. Art Brand singled, moving Walker to third. A walk to Greg Lidas filled the bases.

Pinch-hitter Pete Duncan hit into a fielders choice that cut down Walker at home, but a single to Bill Turnseth drove in Brand with the deciding run.

Smith was the winning pitcher.

In other action involving Central Missouri Conference teams, Jefferson City grabbed a half-game lead over Smith-Cotton with a doubleheader league victory over Columbia Hickman.

Denny Pratt, Jefferson City's senior southpaw, held the Kewpies to only two hits as the Jays posted a 9-0 victory in the opener. The nightcap went eight innings before Jefferson City could come up with the winning tally to claim a 1-0 win.

Jim Nilges, came on in relief of starter Mike Pfautsch with one out in the seventh and got credit for the victory. It was Nilges' sacrifice fly in the bottom of the seventh that drove in the winning run.

Hannibal claimed a 2-0 nonconference victory over Mexico.

Smith-Cotton will see action for the first time at home Wednesday afternoon, when the Tigers play host to Parkhill in doubleheader action.

Westam Corp. buys Stars of the ABA

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Westam Corp. of Salt Lake City bought the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association Monday and said it would soon try to sell 80 per cent of the Stars stock to the public.

The sale price was not disclosed.

Stars owner Bill Daniels of Denver announced the sale at a news conference Monday attended by Westam President Keith Howick, Vice President Lyle Smith, Salt Lake City Mayor Jake Garn, Utah Senate President Warren Pugh and Mike Miller, assistant to Gov. Calvin Rampton. They had all asked that the Stars be kept in Utah.

Westam owns Solitude ski resort outside of Salt Lake City, Ute Liner Co., a motor home manufacturer, and recreational land interests.

Daniels said the deal, while firm, will not be closed until Aug. 1. Howick also said the transaction is firm and does not depend on sale of Stars stock to the public, although that is the goal.

Daniels indicated increased operating costs caused the sale. "There's a trend in professional sports to public ownership. It's just getting too expensive for one man to own a professional ball club," Daniels said. "But I might add that it will only take 1,000 more ticket sales a year to make the Stars break even."

"We have no intention of changing the management. They've done a good job. Why would we want to change a winning team," Howick said.

The Stars are currently involved in the ABA playoffs, having won the regular season West Division championship.

Vada, Wohlford in starting spots

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Kansas City Manager Jack McKeon has decided on his starting outfield, naming Jim Wohlford to play in left field and Vada Pinson to flank Amos Otis in right.

Pinson will bat third in the line up and Wohlford, who has batted .341 in spring exhibition games, will bat second or sixth, McKeon said after a workout in the morning.

McKeon said Wohlford is "a real threat offensively."

Shula facing major changes

MIAMI (AP) — The Miami Dolphins won't lose Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Paul Warfield until the 1975 season, but the affect of their defection to the World Football League could be immediate.

Coach Don Shula's molding of his team into a close, family-type relationship has been credited with helping them win National Football League titles the past two yars.

After the signing of Csonka, Kiick and Warfield by Toronto of the WFL, Shula himself admits he doesn't know what attitude will prevail when training camp begins this July.

"I certainly hope not," said Shula when asked Monday whether animosity might develop between players, coaches and club officials. "Our whole goal is to go back to camp, put the best players together and try to win the Super Bowl again."

Shula said he was misquoted Sunday as saying he might not want to play Csonka, Kiick and Warfield this season.

"I've never been confronted with this situation before," he said. "I heard Csonka said they intended to honor their commitment and it was the responsibility of the club to live up to its commitment."

Csonka said, "We intend to give the Miami fans 100 per cent effort this season, so I assume they'll hold no grudges against us."

Shula's problem is if he plays the trio this year in hopes of recapturing the Super Bowl, he'll face a major rebuilding job in 1975. The alternative is to begin rebuilding now with new players.

But that would require major changes in offensive strategy, which has been built around the bull-like rushes of fullback Csonka with Mercury Morris and Warfield keeping defenses honest with outside runs and pass patterns.

Don Nottingham was acquired last year from Baltimore where he started, but at 5-foot-10 and 210 pounds, he could hardly be expected to provide the durability or the power which made Csonka's line charges so threatening.

Csonka is a 6-2, 237-pound bomb aimed at the line about 16 times a game. He has gained over 1,000 yards the last three seasons, a lot of it strictly on brute strength.

Warfield's experienced successors are Howard Twilley, 29, and Ron Sellers, 27. Twilley saw little action last year because of back problems and Sellers was inactivated by two leg injuries.

Kiick played behind Morris the last two seasons and would be the easiest to keep on the bench.

The next in line is Charlie Leigh, 28, a proven reserve who should have recuperated from a dislocated shoulder suffered in the playoffs last season by the time camp opens.

The Dolphins' concern is that the three players signed so far might not be the last to move to the WFL.

Fourteen other veterans are unsigned, and they include starting tight end Jim Mandich, defensive backs Dick Anderson and Tim Foley, defensive tackle Manny Fernandez, linebacker Mike Kolen and offensive guard Bob Kuechenberg.

Jefferson City netters trim Smith-Cotton 6-3

JEFFERSON CITY — The Jefferson City Jays handled the Sedalia Smith-Cotton boys tennis team here Monday afternoon, capturing a 6-3 team victory over the Tigers.

Smith-Cotton claimed two singles wins and one doubles decision. In the singles, Mike Best defeated Bob Morris of Jefferson City, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3; and Cliff Callis won over Danny Grieve of the Jays, 4-6, 9-7, 6-3.

Best teamed with Steve Steen in the doubles to bring the Tigers their only victory in that division, beating the tandem of Morris and Craig Overfelt, 6-4, 8-6.

Aaron hits third exhibition homer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hank Aaron is ready to play ball . . . even if he isn't ready.

The reticent superstar, who'd prefer not participating this week in Cincinnati, sharpened up for the 1974 baseball season with a home run in Atlanta's 7th spring training victory over Baltimore Monday.

Aaron, with 713, had hoped to break Babe Ruth's home run record of 714 in Atlanta and originally indicated he would sit out the Braves' three-game series with the Reds.

But he has been overruled by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who in effect recently ordered Aaron to play at least two of the three games against the Reds.

Aaron's blast, his third of the exhibition season, was struck as a designated hitter. The homer was one of five the Braves hit Monday.

Dave Johnson hit two homers, and Dusty Baker and Ivan Murrell one each.

Elsewhere, the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Oakland A's 6-2; the Boston Red Sox nudged the St. Louis Cardinals 5-4; the Cleveland Indians tripped the Chicago Cubs 9-2, the Cincinnati Reds crushed the Pittsburgh Pirates 15-9; the Chicago White Sox edged the Minnesota Twins 4-3; the Montreal Expos blasted the Philadelphia Phillies 7-1; the New York Yankees nipped the New York Mets 2-1; the California Angels lashed the University of California-Irvine 10-2; the Houston Astros trimmed the Detroit Tigers 4-1 and the San Francisco Giants shaded the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-6.

Helped by two Oakland errors, Milwaukee broke a 2-2 tie with four eighth-inning runs to defeat Oakland. Sal Bando's three-base error put the Brewers' Bobby Mitchell on third base to start the eighth, and two walks, a ground-rule double by Bob Coluccio, a wild pitch and Pedro Garcia's two-run triple did the rest.

Rico Petrocelli hit a two-out, ninth-inning home run with a teammate aboard to lift Boston over St. Louis.

Cleveland raked Steve Stone for three triples and two doubles in the opening innings and went on to rout Chicago. Gaylord Perry, pitching seven innings for the second time this spring, limited the Cubs to four hits.

Roger Freed, already reassigned to a Cincinnati minor league club, hit two home runs and added a double and a single to help the Reds crush Pittsburgh.

The Chicago White Sox came from behind with three runs in the sixth inning and got three scoreless innings from reliever Wayne Granger to edge Minnesota.

Winning pitcher Mike Torrez hit a bases-loaded triple off Steve Carlton, giving Montreal its victory over Philadelphia.

Gene Michael drove home Graig Nettles with a single in the eighth inning, providing the Yankees with their victory over the Mets. Nettles walked off Harry Parker, moved to second on an infield out and came home on Michaels' base hit.

Joe Lahoud drove in four runs with a home run and double Monday as California pounded the University of California-Irvine.

Dave Roberts pitched seven innings of scoreless ball and knocked in a pair of runs to lead Houston past Detroit.

Playin' keep-away

Houston's Roger Metzger spins in the dust in an attempt to avoid the tag of Detroit's second baseman Gary Sutherland. But Sutherland was able to make the tag anyway during Monday's exhibition action in the Houston Astrodome. The Astros went on to win the game 4-1. (UPI)

Royals break spring camp in Ft. Myers

JACKSONVILLE, Mo. (AP) — The Kansas City Royals have closed down their spring training camp at Fort Myers.

Following today's game with Montreal in Jacksonville, the Royals will go to Little Rock, Ark., for a final tuneup against eastern Missouri's National League St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday.

During Monday's open-date workout at Terry Park, Manager Jack McKeon said Paul Schaal has "shown he's ready, that he can run to our satisfaction."

Schaal underwent surgery on his left ankle to remove some bone chips during the off-season and for a period it appeared it might slow him down.

"It's sore, sure," said Schaal, "but it's stronger every day. I can do anything I want to or have to on it."

The Royals drew 25,244 fans to their exhibition games at Fort Myers, an average attendance of 2,524 and the best ever in six years at Terry Park.

Bosox trip St. Louis Cards 5-4

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals were scheduled to take on the Philadelphia Phillies today to wind up spring training activities in Florida.

A two-out ninth inning home run off the bat of Rico Petrocelli drove in the tying and winning run to give the Boston Red Sox a 5-4 victory over the Cardinals Monday.

Mike Garman, the last of three St. Louis pitchers, retired the first two hitters in the ninth, but then walked Cecil Cooper and set up Petrocelli's drive.

The Red Sox outhit the Cards 11-10, with former Cardinal relief hurler Diego Segui shutting out St. Louis in the eighth and ninth. The Cards had gone ahead 4-3 with two unearned runs in the seventh.

St. Louis concludes its spring training season with an exhibition game against the Kansas City Royals Wednesday in Little Rock.

N.C. State's Thompson is named player of year

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — David Thompson, the Associated Press College Basketball Player of the Year, honed his skills by playing against the "big boys" at Gardner-Webb College in Boiling Springs, N.C., not far from his Shelby home.

While in Crest High School, he would amble over to the college for some fun games against the likes of Artis Gilmore, now the premier 7-foot-2 center of the American Basketball Association Kentucky Colonels. He also went up against George Adams, now with San Diego of the ABA.

"I had to learn to jump high to shoot over them," said the two-time All-American, a mere 6-foot-4.

The 19-year-old North Carolina State junior's awesome leaping ability is just one fact of his superlative all-around play.

Thompson, who repeatedly has said he will shun pro offers until he graduates, because "the money will still be there," led State to a 30-1 record and the NCAA championship last week.

Just as his team dethroned perennial champion UCLA in the NCAA semifinals, Thompson replaced the Bruins' Bill Walton as AP player of the year. Thompson received the vote of 128 of the nation's sports writers and sportscasters to 85 for the 6-foot-11 Walton. Nine other players each got one vote.

Statistics tell only part of the story of his worth to Coach Norman Sloan's team. In 31 games Thompson averaged 26 points, 7.9 rebounds, shot 55 per cent from the floor and 75 at the foul line.

In four NCAA tournament games he scored 115 points, all against nationally ranked teams.

Counting his final year in high school and play on the State freshman team, Thompson-led teams are 117-8 for four years.

ABA rookie honors go to Swen Nater

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Swen Nater finally has popped out of the shadow of former UCLA teammate Bill Walton and it is, he says, "like taking a chain off."

The 6-foot-11 center for the San Antonio Spurs Monday was named the American Basketball Association's Rookie of the Year, nipping San Diego's Caldwell Jones for the honor.

Nater said, "It feels good. I really don't know how well I've done. I just wanted to get into the playoffs."

The rugged 245-pounder did just that, helping the Spurs into a first-round Western Division best-of-seven series against defending ABA champion Indiana.

The big guy was drafted and signed by the Virginia Squires after serving as Walton's "caddie" for two seasons. He won a part-time starting job with the Squires and the hearts of the Virginia fans before suddenly being traded to San Antonio early in the season.

His acquisition cost the Spurs a reported $300,000 and a high draft choice, but Nater may have proven he was worth the price by averaging 14.5 points and 13.6 rebounds in 62 games with the Spurs.

Over-all, Nater averaged 14.1 points and 12.6 rebounds — fourth in the ABA — and led the league in two-point field goal shooting with 55.3 per cent accuracy.

Spurs coach Tom Nissalke said, "It's hard to say how good he (Nater) is in relation to (Kentucky's Artis) Gilmore or (New York's Bill) Faultz, for example. But he's made this a much better ballclub."

Who's going to toss out ball opening day

CINCINNATI (AP) — President Nixon or Vice President Ford will be on hand here Thursday to throw out the first ball opening of the 1974 major league baseball season.

Confirmation was reported late Monday by The Cincinnati Enquirer's Washington bureau.

President Nixon traditionally tossed the first ball in past years, but Washington has since lost its major league team. An Ohio prisoner of war performed the honor at Riverfront Stadium last year.

The Reds host Henry Aaron and the Atlanta Braves.

JEFFERSON CITY — Sedalia Smith-Cotton dropped its first dual golf decision of the year here Monday afternoon, losing to the Jefferson City Senior High School Jays 200-225.

Jim Humphreys of Jefferson City, toured the tough Hough Park course in 38, three-over par, for medalist honors. Bill Landes and Greg Delong shot a pair of 39's to add to the Jefferson City cause.

Dane Henningsen captured top honors for the Tigers with his 39.

The Tigers, who are now 1-1 on the year in prep golf competition, will return to Hough Park Thursday for a triangular meet hosted by Jefferson City Helias. Also in the field will be Waynesville and Rolla.

Results

Jefferson City (200) — Jim Humphreys 38, Bill Landes 39, Greg Delong 39, Mike Ousley 41, Harry Robb 43.

Sedalia Smith-Cotton (225) — Dane Henningsen 39, Mark Thomas 42, John Price 45, Greg Banaka 48, Bob Stockwood 51.

Sylvester McRae lost half of his right leg at the age of 15 months, but not his desire for athletic achievement. He is now 18-years-old and is the discus thrower for the McKeesport Senior High School track team in Pittsburgh, Pa. As a Boy Scout, he could keep up on 15-mile hikes and says he can do just about anything. However, he admits, he does have to try a little harder. (UPI)

How did South manage to get set two tricks at this three notrump contract? The answer is that South was an expert and when experts go wrong they really go wrong.

His nine of diamonds held the first trick and as you can see he could now count on three diamonds, three hearts and three spades. Of course, he needed finesses in both diamonds and hearts, but they were right there staring him in the face.

South was sure of the diamond finesse but didn't want to risk the heart finesse if he didn't have to. So he led a club at trick two.

West ducked and dummy's 10 lost East's jack. East led back a diamond and West's king lost to dummy's ace.

South came to his hand with a spade and led a second club. West won this trick with the ace and cleared the diamond suit.

Now South led out his last two high spades. West chucked a heart. It now looked to South as if East held the guarded queen of hearts and the king of clubs in addition to the last spade. South led his four of spades. East won; led a club to his partner and West's two good diamonds completed the two trick set.

God gave her a lift she needed

By JANET LYNN

I never expected what happened in Sapporo, Japan.

When I went there for the 1972 Winter Olympics a lot of people were counting on me to bring back a gold medal.

You can imagine the pressure this builds. Everyone you know talks about it; you read it in the newspapers. I didn't let myself think much about it, but deep inside I sort of hoped to win one, too.

My competition at the Olympics was to take three days. The first two for school figures, and the last for free skating.

The first day I did fairly well. And I vowed to do better the next day. But I had put myself under such tension that I didn't do as well at all.

Sure I had prayed — prayed to win. And the Lord showed me after each figure that day how far off the track I was.

In the middle of the second day of figures I was almost in hysterics, ready to quit.

Mom and my coach, Miss Slavka Kohout, tried to clam me. But it didn't help.

That evening at the Olympic Village, I lay on my bed crying and praying, wondering where I'd gone wrong. As I prayed I seemed to hear a soft voice: "Cast your burden upon Me, Janet. I still love you."

I drew a deep breath, remembering that moment when I first met Him. It was at a church camp in Lake Geneva, Wis., where I had asked the Lord Jesus to come into my heart.

"Remember, Janet," said my counselor then, "Jesus is always with you, wanting to help you."

"Don't forget," she emphasized, "He can handle anything. He doesn't want you crippled by inhibitions, worries or cares."

Now I knew what was wrong. As I had done so many times before, I'd forgotten His help and ended up hugging all my fears and inadequacies to me.

Right there in my room I relaxed and let my negative feelings float up to Him. It was like being loosened from a vise. It all came so clear.

The Lord seemed to say: "Janet, it doesn't matter whether you get a gold medal or not; I just want you to skate for Me."

On the next day — my most important day — I felt good. My free-skating program was scheduled for the evening. So I had almost a whole day in which to get uptight.

Instead, I just relaxed, didn't do much except talk with teammates, and sit quietly in my room and have fellowship with Him.

Whenever those fear-thoughts would start creeping in, I'd pray: "Lord, I know I needn't worry now about how I'll do tonight. I know You will give me the right feelings at the right time."

Janet Lynn

When I stepped out on the ice in front of those 8,000 people, God did give me those feelings — a sense of freedom and love. Suddenly I could feel His Spirit descending on me like a warm blanket of love. I felt free.

All I wanted to do was tell a story. That's what my coach always says as I step onto the ice: "Go out and tell a story!" And that's what I try to do in free skating.

As I launched into my program, whirling and leaping, I felt wonderful. I just wanted to skate my best for Him, for joy and love.

And then a strange thing happened I fell.

In front of the whole world watching on television, I fell.

It happened in a flying sit spin, right in the middle of my program.

But an even stranger thing happened.

I hardly noticed it. In fact, I lifted right into my most difficult jump and finished the program well enough so that it helped me earn the Olympic bronze medal.

Afterward Miss Kohout and I watched my program on videotape to analyze what had happened; I had never fallen before in a sit spin in competition and hardly ever in practice.

We figured it happened because I had launched my previous jump in the wrong place on the ice and thus started my preparation for the sit spin at a wrong angle.

More important, I thought of what would have happened if I'd reacted to the fall in my old way. Shame and embarrassment would have flung themselves at me with an accusatory, "You fell!" and I would have blown my program.

I went to the window of my room and looked up to the beautiful snow-covered mountains around Sapporo. And I thought of how He is always there to lift us.

For in completely giving ourselves to Him, He gives us back the best part of ourselves so we can face whatever life brings us.

Increase in bike thefts here

Bicycle thefts are on the increase, according to Police Chief William Miller, and he urged bicycle owners and parents to insure that bikes are suitably stored away or locked when not in use.

"There was a time when a kid could ride into his own front yard, jump off his bike, let it drop and expect it to be there when he came back outside to ride again," said Miller, "but not anymore."

According to a newsletter released by the Bicycle Institute of America, Inc., 15.3 million bicycles were sold in the U.S. during 1973 and 60 per cent of them were adult-type models.

Miller said the increase in bicycle sales, especially 10-speed bicycles, has produced a rise in bicycle thefts.

"We've had 52 bike thefts since the first of the year," Miller stated, "and 24 of those have been 10-speeds."

Miller said that many of the bikes are worth $100 or more and would have a good resale value for thieves if the bikes are in good condition.

Although police have no proof of an organized bicycle theft ring in the area, Miller said the possbility certainly exists. "I don't have any facts to back it up ... it's just supposition," Miller said, "but I would expect that a lot of these stolen 10-speeds are finding their way to the city where they can be sold for a good price relalatively easily."

Of the 52 bikes stolen since the first of the year, Miller said that only seven had been recovered and only two of those were 10-speeds. He said that most of those recovered were found lying in a ditch or yard and had probably just been taken for a "joyride" rather than stolen for profit.

"The sale of bikes is increasing incredibly fast and there are now so many bikes on the street that are the same color and look alike ... we can't stop every kid on a bicycle to make sure it belongs to him. It makes our job very difficult," Miller added.

Where have all the pennies gone?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gasoline, cigarette and sales taxes account for much of the demand for pennies. Other billions simply have dropped out of circulation — lost, deposited in piggy banks, forgotten in desk drawers or hoarded by coin collectors.

'Sesame Street' helps children in Appalachians

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of small Appalachian towns are finding television's "Sesame Street" and a self-help preschool project effective in bringing early education to 150 youngsters who otherwise wouldn't get it.

Organized by the Dilenowisco Educational Cooporative with the help of the field staff of the Children's Television Workshop, producers of the TV program, the project employs a mobile classroom that travels up and down the mountain roads with trained paraprofessionals and the tutoring skills of parents to help teach the children in and near their homes.

According to Brainard Hines, a researcher for the Appalachian Educational Laboratory, "the results of a battery of tests indicate the youngsters who were involved in the preschool project are more prepared for entry into first grade than their counterparts in other areas across the country."

The Sesame Street preschool project conducted in a three-county area in Southwest Virginia is now in its second year.

Mariner 10 detected hot star near Mercury

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A mysterious object detected by Mariner 10 has turned out to be a very hot star rather than a moon.

The extremely bright object at first was believed to be a moon circling the planet Mercury, which Mariner has been photographing.

But Dr. A. Lyle Broadfoot of the Kitt Peak National Observatory near Tucson, Ariz., said Monday it was a star in the constellation Corvus.

He said an instrument aboard Mariner which was sweeping space in search of a moon was designed to search for an atmosphere around Mercury and had not been expected to detect stellar radiation.

Dr. James Dunne, Mariner project scientist, said the confusion arose when both Mercury and the object grew fainter as Mariner shot away from Mercury at 24,000 miles an hour.

He explained that quick calculations indicated that the object's movement and change in brightness could be the pattern of a moon circling the planet.

"That was an unfortunate coincidence that fooled us," Dunne said.

He said that after the moon theory was announced at a news conference Sunday "a couple of bright young navigation scientists" noticed there was a star in the area and might be what was believed a moon.

It was later discovered that the object actually wasn't becoming dimmer as Mariner moved away.

Mariner encountered a heat problem Monday.

Softball schedule discussed by board

The Sedalia Park Board met Monday night with representatives of local softball leagues to discuss scheduling for spring games.

Roscoe Righter, recreation director, told the board that Hubbard and Housel Parks already are scheduled about six nights a week for spring games. Centennial Park diamonds are filled with Babe Ruth, Khoury, and Little Leagues, he said.

Members from the various leagues expressed concern that Sedalia does not have enough diamonds for the current demand in softball. Some were concerned that fast-pitch softball teams are scheduled for more week nights than slow-pitch teams.

Righter said slow-pitch teams currently are scheduled for two nights a week while fast-pitch teams have four nights a week.

Righter said, "Softball in general is a growing sport and our city better be ready for it."

He said the department is working to prepare the fields for softball this season. He also suggested that teams be charged a fee to help defray the cost of lighting for night games. He said this would put money into the department, which in turn would go for improvements of the diamonds.

"Most of the leagues wouldn't be that much against it if they could see some improvement in the fields," Righter said.

Righter said Sedalia currently has 12 teams, all of which will be American Softball Association sanctioned.

The board made no decision on the possibility of charging a fee to softball leagues for use of city diamonds.

The board also assigned the recreation committee to work with the local leagues in getting a workable spring and summer softball schedule.

In other business, the board agreed to pay the Sedalia Musicians Association $700 for a series of 11 Thursday night band concerts in Liberty Park.

The board also decided to open the city swimming pools May 25 for the Memorial Day holiday. However, the pools will be closed May 28 through May 31.

Righter said this arrangement was approved because school officials preferred the pools not be opened before the last day of school, May 31.

Righter also reported that the park department's bills for March totaled $1,311.03, and bills for recreation totaled $194.40.

Board President Jim Grady said total expenditures for March recreation were $1,859.47.

He said $1,666.82 was paid for salaries, $60 for car allowance and $132.65 for bills since March 28.

Symington to open office in Columbia

COLUMBIA — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., announced Tuesday he would open a third state office here Saturday. He has two other offices in Kansas City and St. Louis.

"We are opening this additional state office to better assist constituents and local governments as they work with federal agencies. The Columbia location also will provide another communications channel between Missourians and our Washington office," Symington said. Patrick Roberts, a 1973 graduate of the University of Missouri-Columbia Law School, will represent Symington in the office here.

Explorers looking under the Rockies

DENVER (AP) — Explorers for energy fuels are trying to tap new sources under a 2,000-mile stretch of Burlington Northern's railroad right-of-way through the Rocky Mountains.

It's a $3.5-million project, started in January and making use of four million acres of BN property in Montana and North Dakota. It is one of the largest gas and oil exploration ventures ever undertaken in the Rockies. Work is being done by four geophysical contractors and will take about one year.

U.S. whaling fleet was the largest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last American whalers were beached in 1972 after whaling was banned by the Department of Commerce. The three small ships with their bow-mounted harpoon guns were all that remained of what once had been the largest whaling fleet in the world.

Hospital's program is discussed

An explanation of the social services department at Bothwell Hospital, by department director George Thomas, highlighted the weekly meeting of the Sedalia Rotary Club Monday at the Ramada Inn.

Thomas, whose job is to ease patients' worries over hospital costs and other non-medical items, described his position as being a "liaison between physicians and patients' families." He also helps patients acquire effective post-hospital care if needed.

He was introduced by program chairman Walter Savio.

Guests introduced at the meeting by Dave Klingman were Dr. Joe Ingram, Lloyd Wren, Lawrence Stewart, Raymond Hall, Jim Postlewaite and Ray Pautz. Student guests introduced were Marc Struble and Jeff Smith from Sacred Heart High School and Jeff Edwards from Smith-Cotton High School.

The club voted at the meeting to donate $400 to the Sedalia Little League program, $20 to the Show Me Opportunity Camp, $25 to the Scott Joplin Festival and $200 to the Sedalia Junior Babe Ruth League.

In other activities, Jerry Harlan gave a three-minute description of his life.

Presiding at the meeting was club president Robert Phillips, with the invocation offered by Ron Shuler. Jim Edwards, accompanied by Firmin Boul, led the singing.

Safety in aviation is meeting topic

An aviation safety program will be presented at the REA building, North 65 Highway, at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Sponsored by Explorer Post No. 150, the program is free and open to the public and will feature a movie on "wake turbulance" and the dangers involved in small aircraft flying too closely to larger ones.

A second film on flight safety may be shown as well as a lecture on flight safety. The films and lectures will be followed by a question and answer period.

The program will be conducted by Flight Service Station, Columbia, and organization that provides weather and traffic information via radio to aircraft in the Columbia area. The organization is connected with the Federal Aviation Agency.

Danforth accused of conflict of interest

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sen. Richard Webster, R-Carthage, accused fellow Republican John C. Danforth of a conflict of interest Monday night as he moved to cut the Attorney General's 1974-75 fiscal year budget by $100,000.

The Southwest Missouri legislator was angered by Danforth's recent opinion upholding the secrecy of milk pricing recores in the state Agriculture Department and Danforth's recent refusal to reverse that opinion under Senate pressure.

"Ralston Purina obviously has a big stake in the scandal in southwest Missouri," Webster said in leveling his blast against Danforth, whose family is the principal owner of the St. Louis-based firm that makes cattle feed.

The Attorney General, contacted by the Associated Press at his home late Monday, denied any connection between his opinion on the milk records and Ralston Purina, labeling Webster's charges as "untrue, obviously an attack on my personal integrity."

Webster deleted the $100,000 from the Attorney General's budget, charging that Danforth, "sure doesn't need anyone to write opinions because he never writes any decent opinions anyway."

The committee sent the reduced Attorney General's budget, totaling $1.1 million and still $100,000 more than last year's, to the Senate floor.

Both he and Appropriations Committee Chairman Norman Merrell, D-Monticello, claimed that Ralston Purina had an interest in a controversial proposal to build a giant hog farm in Merrell's northeast Missouri district near Kahoka.

"I'm tired of subsidizing Ralston Purina," Webster charged. "We've got Ralston Purina telling us how to run state government."

Webster said that southwest Missouri has the higheast retail price for milk and the lowest profit for milk producers, and he said Danforth sought briefs from the dairy industry in connection with the milk records opinion while ignoring the farmers.

Glaucoma treatment

An Ocusert oculat delivery system, used in the treatment of glaucoma, is shown being inserted into the eye of a clinical patient. The device utilizes a reservoir of pilocarpine, the drug normally used to control intra-ocular in the treatment of the disease. The drug is encapsulated by a semi-permeable membrance through which it permeates at a precisely predetermined rate. As opposed to the eye-drop therapy, Ocusert delivers philocarpine for an entire week. The system is manufactured by the Alza Corp. in Los Angeles.

Early returns amendment to campaign reform adopted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Early presidential election returns could not be published or broadcast under a campaign reform bill amendment adopted by the Senate.

The purpose of the amendment, offered by Sen. Henry L. Bellmon, R-Okla., and approved by a 43-38 vote, is to prevent returns in the East from influencing voters in other parts of the country.

More amendments to the controversial bill continued to pile in today, adding to a stack already submitted and not yet acted on.

The bill includes provisions for use of tax funds to finance campaigns for federal offices as well as limitations on contributions and expenditures.

Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., and other opponents of public financing have threatened a filibuster to block the bill's passage.

A two-thirds majority would be required to shut off debate, and Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd told newsmen the votes will be hard to get.

Bellmon's amendment would make it a criminal offense, punishable by a $5,000 fine or a year in jail, to make public any information on votes cast for president before midnight, eastern standard time, on election day.

As long as there are families, there'll be family-size cars.

Of course a family-size car won't match the mileage of a minicar. It won't match the mileage of a motor scooter, either, for that matter.

But how else will you haul all the kids and dogs and relatives and things around?

If you try to shoe-horn everybody and everything into a midget automobile, its mileage suffers. Not to mention the people in it. And what happens to that feeling of security that's so important to a family?

You could always make two trips out of it.

But then you'd wind up using twice as much gas.

So what's the answer?

Common sense says to buy as much car as you need, but no more.

Then take care of it so you won't waste gas. Keep the engine tuned and the tires properly inflated. And drive it with a light touch on the accelerator.

This way, everybody will get where they're going. In good shape.

Traveling by Bond criticized

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri legislature was urged Monday to investigate whether the state is paying for out-of-state travel by Republican Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

Richard Nacy Jr., executive director of the state Democratic committee, charged Bond with ignoring his responsibilities as Governor by being out of the state "20 per cent of the time," and he said if the state has been paying for those trips, the legislature should "cut the governor's appropriations accordingly."

The Governor's office declined comment until Bond has had time to study the allegations.

"Bond ranks second only to California Gov. Ronald Reagan in republican governor absenteeism," Nacy claimed. Since taking office in January 1973, Bond has been out of the state for 85 days "and that is one day out of every five," Nacy contended.

The trips have already required the state to pay Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps an additional $5,100 in salary, Nacy said, adding, "we can only guess at how much Bond's out-of-state travels have cost the taxpayers in other ways."

Six killed on state highways

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Six persons were killed on Missouri highways in about a five-hour period Monday night.

The first accident, at 5:35 p.m., resulted in two deaths on Missouri 116 five miles west of Plattsburg in northwest Missouri. Killed in the collision of a pickup truck and a car were Mrs. Vonda Smith, 48, Edgerton, Mo., and Robert Dunn, 44, Plattsburg.

Donald Gene Bonar, a 38-year-old truck driver from Omaha, was killed when an oil tanker he was hauling crushed the rig's cab after it went off U.S. 59 near Fairfax and overturned. The highway patrol said Bonar was attempting to avoid a car in front of him that broke its speed while approaching the intersection of Missouri 46 in extreme northwest Missouri.

A station wagon carrying 12 teenagers hurtled down a 40-foot embankment in St. Joseph, killing one of the occupants and critically injuring another. The dead youth was identified as Doug Beaver, 16. Mark Burris, 19, who was critically injured, was transferred to St. Luke's Hospital in Kansas City.

Leroy C. Bennett, 42, of Kirkwood, and Edward L. Day, 40, of Valley Park, were killed in the collision of their cars on U.S. 66 west of Allenton in southwest St. Louis County. The accident occurred shortly after 8 o'clock, the highway patrol said, when Day's vehicle crossed the center line into oncoming traffic and struck the Bennett car headon.

Here's some straight talk from Missouri State Bank of Sedalia, and it's about savings!

Q. Why do bank ads say "Substantial Interest Penalty required for early withdrawal"?

A. That means if you have to have your money earlier than you agreed to, we have to charge you a penalty. It's the law.

Q. What about insurance -- and the safety of my savings?

A. Every depositor in Missouri State Bank of Sedalia is insured to $20,000.00 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, an agency of the United States Government. The term "depositor" refers to the name in which the account is held. A husband could have one account in his own name, his wife could have a second account in her name, and together they could hold a joint account. Each of the three accounts would be insured to the full $20,000.00.

Q. What is "Daily Interest"?

A. "Daily Interest" refers to the compounding of interest on your account every day, day after day. Before you know it, you'll be receiving interest on interest . . . on interest . . . on interest . . . and so on.

Q. Where should I put my money to work . . . and how much will it earn for me?

A. We might be a bit prejudiced, but Missouri State Bank of Sedalia has a long-standing record for paying the maximum interest on savings that the law allows.

For example . . .

FOUR-YEAR CERTIFICATES	CERTIFICATES FOR 2½ YEARS OR MORE...	CERTIFICATES FOR 1 UP TO 2½ YEARS...	CERTIFICATES FOR 90 DAYS TO 1 YEAR...	PASSBOOK SAVINGS...
7.0% PER ANNUM	6.5% PER ANNUM	6.0% PER ANNUM	5.5% PER ANNUM	5.0% PER ANNUM

If Certificate of Deposit is withdrawn during respective time period, interest will be paid at Passbook rate for the period held, less three months. Federal regulations require that any transfer from present certificates prior to maturity will incur a penalty charge.
